WE ARE THE PRESIDENTS

As we began our senior year, national campaigning during a presidential election reached its height. Soon we found the president had been reelected. My fellow Americans are words that have opened presidential speeches throughout this nation's history. When we hear them, we do well to listen, as the words of presidents shape the world around us. How will we respond? Throughout our years at Quincy High School, we have grown in Presidential Spirit. The banners in the lobby proclaim the virtues that we strive for: respect, determination, loyalty, tolerance, graciousness, courage, reliability, honesty. Prominent in the Pride Room window stands the Great Spirit. Our spirit. Franklin Delano Roosevelt reminds us, "We may take pride in the fact that we are soft-hearted; but we cannot afford to be soft-headed." What kind of people do we think we are? We are from Quincy High School. We are the Presidents.

*So let us ask ourselves,
What kind of people do we think we are?*

Ronald Regan

The school year began as a tale of two principals. Mr. Keuther left us for a position in his home town and Mr. Santoro stepped up to replace him. He invited us to exercise our rights at the same time that he cracked down on our responsibilities, strictly enforcing rules forbidding food in the classrooms and smoking at school.

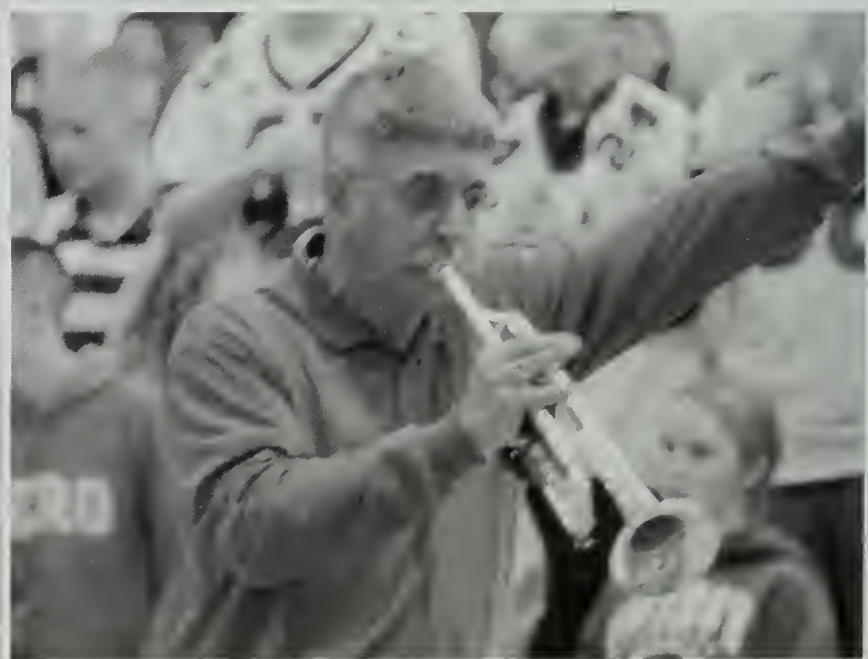

But the Red Sox made it difficult to worry about this or anything else. Their rise from cursed to first kept everyone up nights throughout the fall. Then the Patriots crowned their season with another world championship! Many midyear exams were cancelled as we lost a full week to the snowiest January on record, then a bomb scare claimed another day. Our senior year was flying toward the end we all looked forward to, but didn't really want to get to.

ADMINISTRATION AND FACULTY

Mrs. E. Lebo
Director of Occupational Education

Mr. F. Santoro
Principal

Ms. M. MacNeil
Assistant Principal

Rising to the Challenge

The class of 2005 will always be a special class to me. You have been most helpful orienting me to Quincy High School in my first year as principal. Your willingness to assist me and welcome me to your school has been most encouraging. Upon my arrival, I soon realized that Quincy High School is a special place filled with caring, kind and talented people.

The New Deal

Not only were over twenty faculty members added to the staff this year, but the principal also presents a new face and sets a new tone for Quincy High School.

Now that you have experienced the academic programs and extra-curricular activities offered at Quincy High School it is time for you to use those things that you have learned as young adults. You have spent the last four years answering questions to problems that already have solutions. It is now time for you to use your talents and discover the solutions to those unanswered questions. I am sure you will "Rise to the Challenge". Good luck, Class of 2005. Come back to Quincy High School to share your successful experiences. Mr. Santoro

Freshman year The Inauguration

For some it was the first time taking the bus to school. Getting lost was a daily occurrence. Mr. Keuther wore a beanie, propellor and all, at the rally.

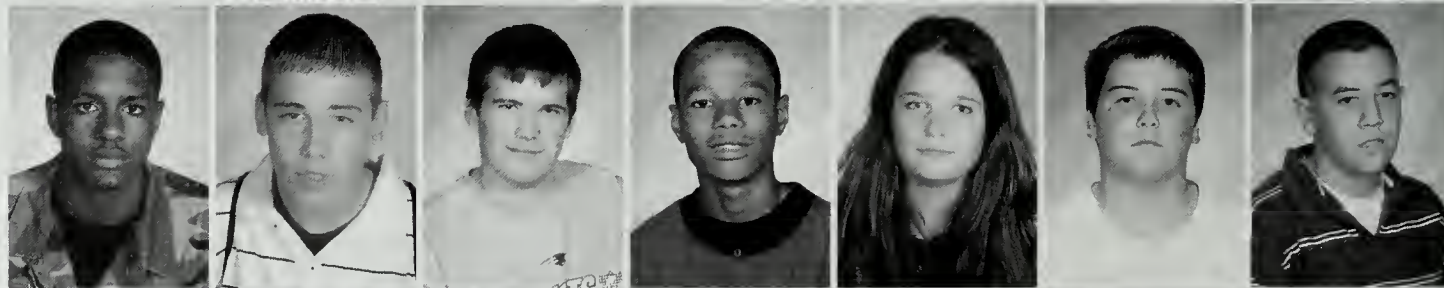

Mr. Jones acted out books as he read them. Mrs. Day was a presence as was our new dean Ms. Sullivan. Mr. Scanlon handed out lollipops but Mr. Gendron never shared his Skittles. The Patriots won the Superbowl while we were almost undefeated in basketball and our baseball team went to the tournament. September 11 shook us as it shook the whole world.

Sophomore year Halls of justice & fun

Washington Morriset broke the state record for the high jump. We wore ID cards on lanyards. Mr. Scanlan always said, "Very fine." We dissected a frog with Mr. Cawthorne. The hockey team made the tournament but a missed curfew kept one line out of the game. We took the MCAS with Macbeth fresh in our minds from honors English, and most of us wrote about it. A lot of us stayed all day, hoping for help on the math, but the proctors stood firm--we were on our own to prove ourselves. And we did.

Junior year Sons, daughters of liberty

There was a pig at the rally. The Patriots won the Superbowl again and our football team made a run for the state championship. The baseball team won 14 games and went to the tournament. Mrs. O'Brien's Mock Olympics were fun and wild but her holocaust unit broke our hearts. On Pi Day Dhimiter Kondili memorized 150 digits of Pi but he still lost! We sang songs with Mrs. Lane on Mole Day. We had two whole blissful weeks off in December. The SAT was too soon after our fabulous prom.

SENIORS

SENIOR YEAR

Our senior year had many unforgettable moments. We watched the Red Sox win the World Series and the Patriots take the Superbowl. The Blizzard of '05 made parking impossible, but gave us a week off in January and the cancellation of midyear exams. Mr. Santoro came on as principal, bringing us basketball at lunch and a crackdown on what and where we ate. Students who put a fake hand grenade in a stairwell were prosecuted to the max. All of us made ready to move on, knowing we would soon graduate, but not quite believing that day would really come.

It is very exciting and joyful to be a senior student. It became my dream, when I first day came to Quincy High School. I have learned many knowledge from my teachers. Appreciate for their kindness and gentleness. Graduating from QHS is my dream, but I don't want it coming true now. Because of LH has changed my mind. Anyway, I want to say thank you to him. He is the person that I won't forget in my life. 1437 good luck QHS.

Each of us must climb our separate mountain, to reach at last our own extended view. We can be no more than what we are, yet that is quite enough for us to do. For me, knowledge brings me the greatest satisfaction, and I am at peace knowing I have gained this. My experiences have shaped the individual I am. Thanks to my family and friends for pushing me to be no one but myself. Much love.

Being a high school student for the past four years of my life, I have had memorable experiences each year. Coming in as a freshman and entering a whole new world hoping to learn as much as I can. Now I'm leaving as a senior taking all the knowledge with me and hoping I can move on to greater heights. "I believe if you put your mind to something, you can accomplish anything you want in life." I plan to do this and I hope that the class of 2005 will follow me and succeed in every way they desire. I would like to thank my friends (I hope we always keep in touch), my family (ILU), and my teachers for helping me enjoy these past four years. I will miss it, but also treasure it as well. Women in Technology 11,12.

Matthew J. Myatt Frazier (Tranny)

Dear QHS, I wont miss you. But Mrs. O'Brien, you I will. The past four years were wasted and Im leaving here with only the small amount who matter. "Perfection Ain't Perfect." Wow! Can you believe this, 4 years of high school is over! I never thought this day would come. Many things have changed, and thinking back to Freshman year, I want to get out of QHS so much, but as senior year comes to an end, I want to stay a little longer. I really have to thank all my teachers that I've had, and I really appreciate what they have done/taught me. I also want to thank Mr. Swanson, Ms. Creedon, and Mrs. Fortuna for giving me support during my tennis days. Lastly I want to thank my friends ML, DK, TH, RM, MC, and ER for being there when I really needed it. National Honor Society 10,11,12; Tennis 10,11,12.

Finally the four years of high school are over. Lots of things happened in these four years that made me the person I am today. I would like to thank my family for all their support and teachers that have taught me so much. To all the homies like Somy who will always be repping those rice-burners, Chan and his Pimp Van, Kee without you what would I do, Dhim I finally got you skipping, B it's all about the button up, Dan we'll be in the O.C. and Tran you'll always be the man. Now for the ladies: Katherine I had so much fun at prom with you, Wongz what would my b-day be without you, Wendalina repping her tennis pride, my twin Rebi, Be Bu, and D. Perry do you feel the love?? Reppen the class of '05 Yeahh!!!

Listen to me. Listen to me and I will tell you things that will make you laugh, and I will tell you things that will make you uncomfortable, and I will tell you things that will make you really frigging angry and I will tell you things that no one else is telling you. But what I won't do, is lie to you. In the end you may find there's no guiding subtle light, no ancestors or friends, no judge of wrong and right. Oh man!! I can't believe it is over this was the greatest 4 years of my life, but it was a good experience for me especially coming from another country and trying to fit in but I was lucky enough to meet great people who made my life easier. Quincy High School was 4 years of ups and downs, it was mostly good times but the bad times helped me grow up. I would 1st like to thank God for the blessings and my boys you know who you are but a special shout out to Ronny, Hamido, Camron and the whole Soccer team I love you and also to all my girls especially Alice, Katherine, Beatriz, Linda, Kim Cali, and Abby I'll miss y'all and I can't forget all my teachers specially my favorite teacher of all times Ms. Flaherty (English teacher) and my soccer coach Kevin Orcut the best coach ever and sorry for all the hard times I gave you but in the end it is all love. I'll miss those first days of school when mixed emotions fill the air, excitement of rekindling and making new friendships, and fear of meeting new teachers. I'll even miss those nail biting midterms and final exams, but most of all I'll miss those relationships created every passing year with teachers and classmates who helped make my high school career an enjoyable feat. So even though years from now the names of teachers and classmates might fade away with every passing day we shall always have that bond that we were a Quincy High President.

I want to thank my mother & my father for helping me in the four years of being at Quincy High! Most of all I want to thank my bestfriend Kelly McNally for helping me out in everything! To all my friends that have been with me all four years! Thank you guys!!!!

Egi Plasari

During these last four years it took 720 days to end the four years of high school. I thank those who helped me make it, Mr. Holbrook, and Mr. Campbell for teaching me and all the automotive students about cars and how to fix them. It's like the say "puff-puff-pass". It has been fun and good luck to everyone who made it.

Linda R. Poteau (Lindeezi)

I'd like to thank my Mom and Dad for everything they've done for me. Thanks Kevin for dealing with me! I want to show gratitude to Jo-Ann (My Sis) and the rest of my TBC peeps. I have to shout-out my friends Beatrice, Tammy, Pearl, Katherine, Kim, Jose, and Cali! To the rest of "the crew" and to the peeps I forgot to mention "you are still in my heart for always". To Samantha, you and I are the original "Haitian Sensation!" Thanks to my teachers especially Mr. Mulready and Ms. Kabakoff, you two are my favorite! I'll miss everyone and to my seniors "I wish you the best! This is just the beginning! "Saving the best for last, I want to give praise to God, because "my help comes from the Lord who made heaven and earth." (Psalm 121). Bye QHS! I think one of the best experiences of highschool for me were the people I got to know better and meet. Linda you are the most "amazing asian" ever!! And I'm so glad we became friends. Angel I love our "life in the movies" discussions and you deserve every good thing that comes your way. Steve, you're the most original person I've ever met and I hope you'll find what you want in life. Matt, we've talked about anything and everything before and I hope that'll still apply in the future. Tricia and Mark I miss you all so much and I don't see enough of you two. Desi, you have to be the most fun person to be around and I know you'll make it big in life. Nicole, your such a nice person to everyone and I know that any art school you want to go to you'll get in. Emily, Kristina, Kathleen, Anthony Devin, Daryl, Mike, Reeney, Vincent, Matt, Melissa, for making last summer so much fun! Most importantly I'd like to thank my family. My mom, my dad, my sisters Kristin, Cassie, Stephanie, and my brother, Paul for always being so supportive of me. I appreciate you all so much and then some. I know you'll all be proud of me no matter what. Basketball 9; Women in Technology 11,12.

ORGANIZATIONS

The Capitol Gallery

Art Club is a group of artists who gather after school to explore art and all of its possibilities. Some of the exciting projects include hand crafting a Christmas float for the annual Christmas Festivities Parade, putting on art shows, and checking out art galleries. It is a relaxed atmosphere where students get to share in each other's artistic interests. In the art room, you don't want to go home at 2:30!

Courtney talks about her artwork, frequently displayed at QHS.

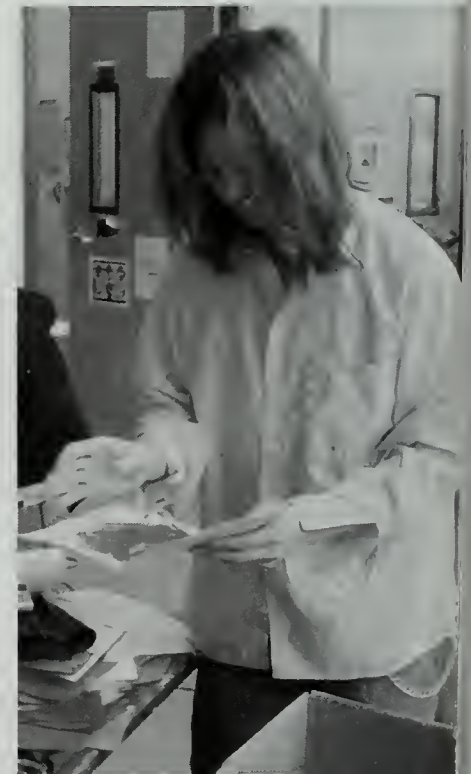

ART CLUB & FASHION CLUB

Presidential Apparel

Fashion Club is for everyone who is interested in fashion. There are different areas, such as sewing, modeling, fundraising, public relations, sound, stage, music and film. The fashion show held March 10, 2005 showcased designs created by Clothing 2, Clothing Honors, and Clothing Major students. The Fashion Club gives students a chance to get creative and design new and original outfits.

The Color Guard opens many ceremonies throughout the school year, as here at the fall sports rally.

The wild blue yonder

The nation which forgets its defenders will be itself forgotten.

(Calvin Coolidge)

The AFJROTC encompasses many aspects of leadership. In class students learn about US history and government in relation to aerospace science. Outside cadets learn discipline through soldiering activities and care by performing community service and participating in parades and other events such as First Night Quincy.

March Down the Field to the Music!

The combined Quincy North Quincy Band has sixty-five members. They play at all home football games and march in the city of Quincy's Christmas Parade. The band performs in the winter and spring concerts. The band is composed of students in grades 9 through 12. The band does fundraising for trips to music festivals, and participates in community service.

Jory Thomas practices the school song on his trombone.

Stephen Reed and Stephen Palmatier show off all their hard work and dedication to playing instruments.

The band gets ready to play as the rally begins. The band gets everyone up and singing, or at least clapping, to the school song.

Many of this year's seniors were stars of the spring concert of May 25, 2004. Songs such as What I Did For Love, All That Jazz, My Strongest Suit, Shadowlands, Mama Mia, Pinball Wizard, You Can't Stop the Beat and Telephone Hour were show stoppers and sent the audience humming into the warm spring evening.

Third Row: William Gilcoine, Andrew Henck, Danh Huynh, Advisor Ms. Scanlan.

Our Star Spangled Banner Singers

Any person with an interest in music is encouraged to join the Quincy High School choral group. Along with daily music classes, students work on music theory which teaches students about the structure of how songs are made. A select few can also audition for the Horizon Honor Choir, a group of students who sing at rallies and other special events.

The Education Presidents

The Museum of Fine Arts Docent Program is designed to intergrate the arts into the Quincy High School curriculum. Students participate in training sessions to understand and appreciate art collections at the museum. They relate their experiences and knowledge from their training as docents to their classmates.

DOCENTS

The crowd loves the moves Samantha and Daphne come up with for their team.

The girls take their spots on the mats as they wait for the music.

The ladies end the performance with this pyramid-style pose.

Muge Balkanli waits nervously in the stands for the dance team's turn to perform at the rally.

The Pony takes the lead and dances with the girls as they get the crowd pumped for victory.

The QHS Pony is the dance team's proudest new member. He really gets the team excited!

Co-captain Samantha Mailles makes a gentle attempt to quiet down the crowd before the music starts.

This group of fun, talented girls have no problem showing off their attitudes when it comes to dancing.

These girls sure do have all their moves in sync.

Getting down low is no problem for these athletic ladies.

Remember the Ladies

The Quincy High School Dance Team is full of energy and smiles. The team's captains were Samantha Mailles and Daphne Walker. These ladies were proud to have the pony as one of their teammates this year. They put on a great show at the Football Rally, with lots of original moves to our favorite hip-hop songs.

Speakers of the House

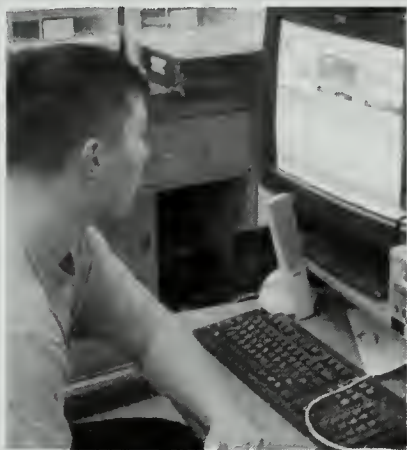

7:30 A.M. This is the time when all the magic comes together. Slowly but surely, like the waking dead, the crew comes in and starts turning on all of the equipment. From Fil setting up the camera shot to Andy setting up the mics, everyone plays an intergral role in keeping this machine running. Come 7:45 with maybe a couple seconds to spare, the show is ready and goes out live to all the classrooms in school.

The United Nations

From Spectrum participating and supporting the Martin Luther King breakfast to the GSA led by Senior Steve Smith working hard every day to promote tolerance and acceptance for gay and lesbian students in the community, these two groups show how, with the right motivation, anything is possible and that everyone is equal in our society. Diversity is the key!

Community Service at its Best

The Interact Club is a community service-based organization that is sponsored by the Quincy Rotary. Members of Interact develop leadership and citizenship skills through their volunteer efforts and fundraising work. Events include the Marie Curry Walk, Wolleston Beach Clean Up, Pancake Breakfast at 1000 Southern Artery, and the

Mu Alpha Theta

If a , b , and c , are the smallest possible integers for which $3a=4b=5c$, what is the sum of $a+b+c$?

Every Monday afternoon, there is a group of students who gather in Room 54. They eat, they laugh, and they compete. You wonder what they are actually doing?

See the math problem above? Yes, the students are enjoying the fun and beauty of math. That is a typical contest problem from the New England Mathematics Competition (NEML). Quincy High School's top mathematic students regularly tackle such problems as they compete annually in six thirty-minute contests. This year, the fifth year of Mu Alpha Theta, our NEML high scorer is Dhimiter Kondili.

Solving complicated word problems might drain our brains a little, but we do relax and have fun with other stuff. Sometimes, students spend more than five minutes on just one question that turns out to be a trick. By the time they hear the answer, the reaction is simply, "What?" and they laugh out loud. We hope the laughter will continue for years to come. With presidents as talented and enthusiastic as Vu Chu, Haiying Liu and Wendy Szeto, it's bound to!

Peace-keepers

The SCORE Mediation Program teaches valuable skills and methods to resolve conflicts in ways other than physical fighting. Many students go to the Mediation Center with concerns of fighting, harassment, and rumors between friends. The mediators are trained students who help resolve these conflicts by remaining neutral as they assist each party to understand the other's position.

MEDIATION

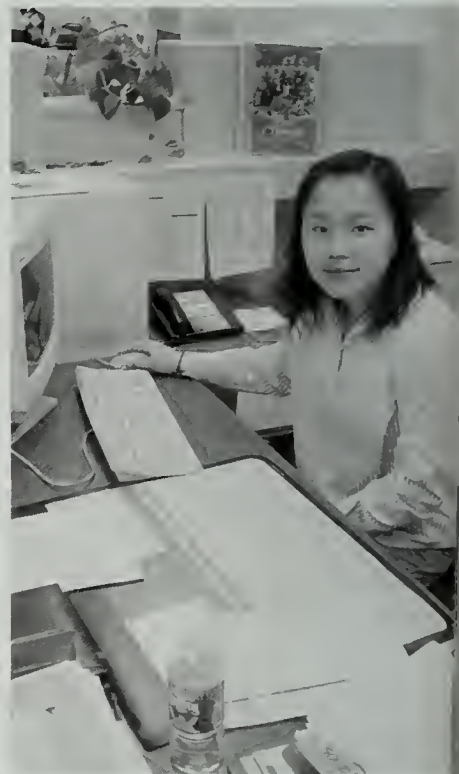

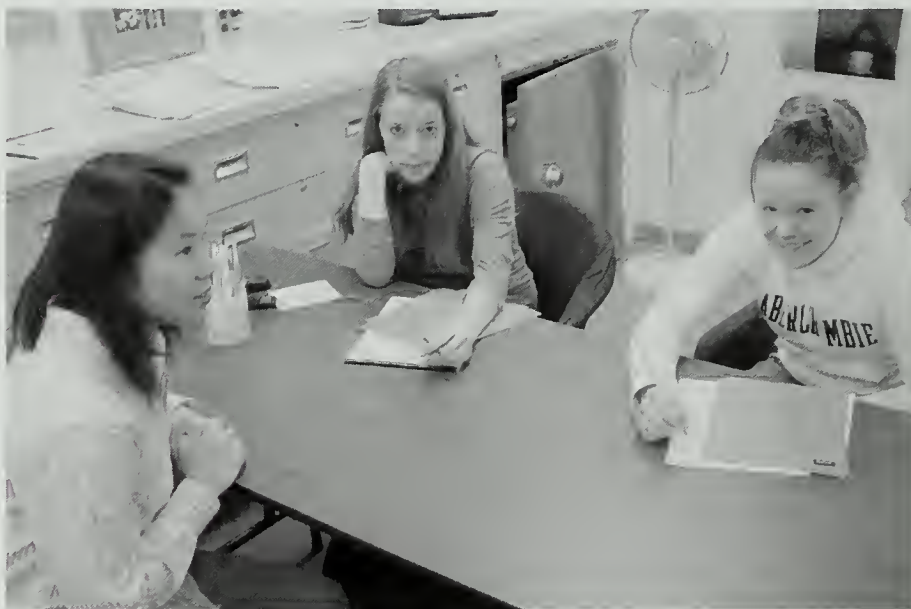

Mrs. Turner tells us SCORE stands for Student Conflict Resolution Experts.

Ashlee Scott and Wendy Szeto study the guide book and freshen up on a few rules.

Mediation is a difficult process that requires consummate people skills. These new mediators learn to listen carefully and to gently guide the conversation with judicious questions. Mediators must remain neutral and refrain from judging.

Allison McDonough knows that the only resolutions that work are those that the students in conflict come to agree upon.

While Wendy records the proceedings of a mediation (above) Allison and Ashlee prepare for the next mediation.

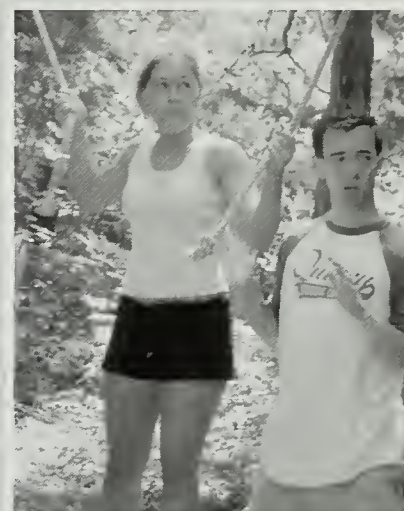

It is not surprising to find members of the National Honor Society taking charge in many of the school's activities and sports, including Leadership Camp, and loving every minute of it!

Book Awards (above) are made each year to promising members of the National Honor Society. Members also assume leadership in the classroom and the community.

Presidential qualities

Leadership, service, character and scholarship are the criteria upon which applicants to the National Honor Society are selected. Most participants become members in their sophomore year, but they must live up to the society's standards, report card after report card, to stay in the organization. Members provide tutoring and serve as mentors to middle school students.

Riding the Pony Express

In its second consecutive year as Quincy High School's source for news, The Pony Express has flourished. The paper's name is derived from the Appeal to the Great Spirit carving in the lobby. Its content captures QHS pride, accomplishments, and highlights of the school year in each issue. Contributing students of all grades are the primary reason for its tremendous success.

Geoffrey Hicks stands proudly with this year's first issue of The Pony Express, published in December.

Donald listens intently as Ms. McNeice gives advice on how to make his article catch the reader's attention.

Members of Operation Day's Work talk together to brainstorm new ideas for community service. They determine how to raise money to help build schools to educate thousands of children. Although the club is only in its first year, its members are very ambitious. They hope to contribute to a different country each year.

ODW students choose a project in an underdeveloped country and begin a campaign of knowledge, educating themselves and their peers about the devastation going on in the chosen country.

This club has created many new friendships.

Operation Day's Work is an organization that focuses on student leadership, responsibility and volunteerism in middle and high schools. The primary goal of ODW is to raise awareness about, and to put a stop to, child labor. With Ms. Glavin's guidance, students select a worthy project and raise funds to make a difference in the lives of children.

MEN & WOMEN IN TECHNOLOGY

Katie Walker explores the important fact that many male-dominated careers such as engineering abound with possibilities for women.

Remember the ladies (and guys too!)

Women in Technology (WIT) is an organization for high school women to explore non-traditional careers such as construction, electrical, plumbing, automotive and other jobs generally associated with men. Members attend and also host seminars for other schools who have clubs like WIT. Last year the club invited women with non-traditional careers to QHS to speak. Students from other schools attended and all worked together on a special project called Tinker Toys.

The Men's Club came into being for young men to explore non-traditional careers such as nursing, child care, elementary school teaching, and art or dance therapy. This organization will be hosting their own seminars for students in other high schools.

Minh Le demonstrates that designing a sophisticated robot is difficult, but also fun in the process. This year's challenge involves forms called tetrahedra. These are forms with four triangular sides. Tetrahedra are important in many engineering applications for their ability to pack closely and to provide structural strength.

Robotics teammates work under the generous supervision of engineers from the Gillette Company.

It's time to play the game!

The game is simple. Two alliances, consisting of three teams, compete for the most points. The arena is 27' by 54', with 3 rows of 3 tetrahedral goals arranged. The 6 robots vie to place smaller tetrahedra on top of these goals. The competitors with the top-most tetrahedron on a goal will claim it as their own. If no tetras are stacked on the goal, the team with the most unstacked tetras will claim it. The teams will have equal numbers of differently colored tetra to recognize ownership. Each tetra in a goal is one point, while each tetra stacked on the goal is worth three. Ten extra points come for the topmost tetras on three aligned goals and if the team's robots have been returned back to the endzone. Best of luck in the spring competitions, Robotics!

Coyotes roaming in Quincy?

Participants in Envirothon study the local environment through activities such as identifying trees even without their leaves, learning about archaeology in Caddy Park and testing the nitrate levels in the water of Black's Creek. Did you know that construction at High Point has disturbed the coyotes' habitat? Watch out! They've been spotted in many of Quincy's marshlands!

The First Family

Student Council is open to all students and offers an opportunity for everyone to participate in student government. Each class elects a President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer and at least ten representatives. Student Council is a great way to become an active leader at Quincy High School and allows students to voice their opinion about any issues at school that they want resolved.

In a world where acts of terrorism are all too commonplace, the yearbook staff likes to think of itself as an anti-terrorist force. For late in May, an explosion will go off at Quincy High School, but it will be a blast of laughter and happy tears, as the yearbook is delivered to scores of seniors.

Elena looks up from tallying the superlative votes. Surveys are the best way for the staff to get to know what the whole senior class thinks about things. Counting votes is really tedious, but everyone awaits the results with great excitement!

Party time! Every deadline is a challenge, particularly the one just before the December holidays when everyone is busy. When we were ready to ship it out, we celebrated!

YEARBOOK

Derek works on a draft of the swim team coverage as he waits for his turn on the computer.

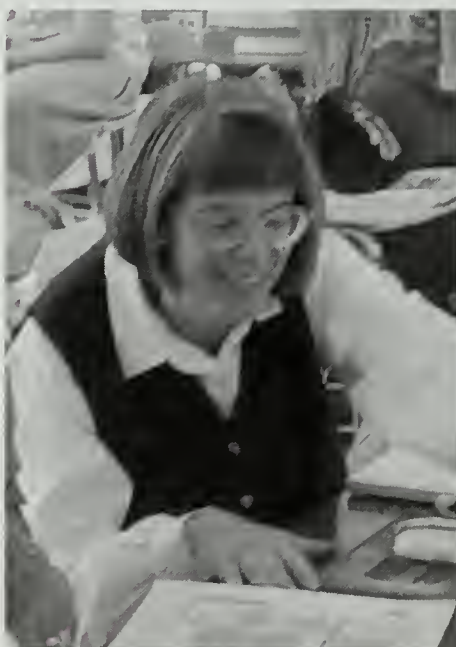

Ed and Leah put together lots of lively coverage of the rally and sports and took some great photos.

Spelling names right is an almost impossible task, but the whole staff does its best, working in pairs as Steve and Mike do here.

Did you show up for a Presidential portrait? Steve prepares to work on these, extracting the backgrounds using Photoshop.

Mrs. Ryan makes sure the staff meets the demanding schedule of deadlines that makes a May delivery possible.

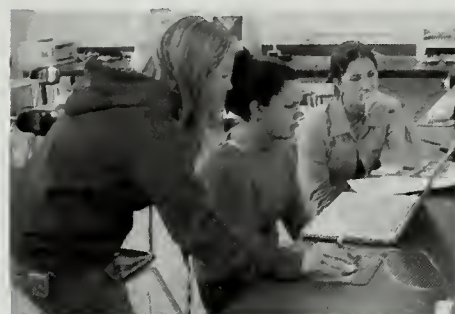

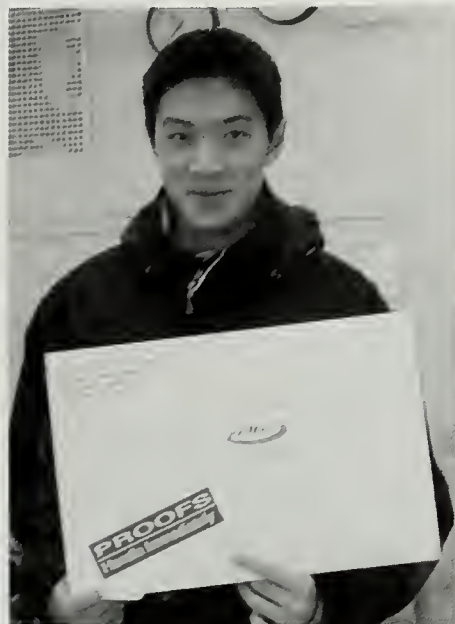

Photos are the heart of the year book and the staff works hard to see that every senior is pictured at least once.

Elena sits in front of the sign-up sheet for computer use, critical to meeting the publishing deadlines. She's holding some of the ad contracts that she worked hard to win.

Mike prepares to brave the winter's cold making one of many trips to the post office to return proofs or contact seniors' homes.

Leah, Lisa and Melissa work together on a double page spread. A page is never done, but the deadline puts an end to work on it!

Ed ponders his next move. Staffers need to interview sources then write articles, captions and headlines.

Weaving in the theme adds a challenge for Melissa and Lisa, who often worked together.

The yearbook is your book

The yearbook staff does its best to make sure this book is all about you. Over a dozen pieces of gold-enrod paper have come your way, asking for your pictures, your opinions and your stories. We took pictures at rallies, dances, games, club meetings, plays, and variety shows. Did you show up for a Presidential portrait? We apologize if we spelled your name wrong, but we sure hope that, like the hoochie-coochie man, everybody knows you're here.

The Campaign Pledge

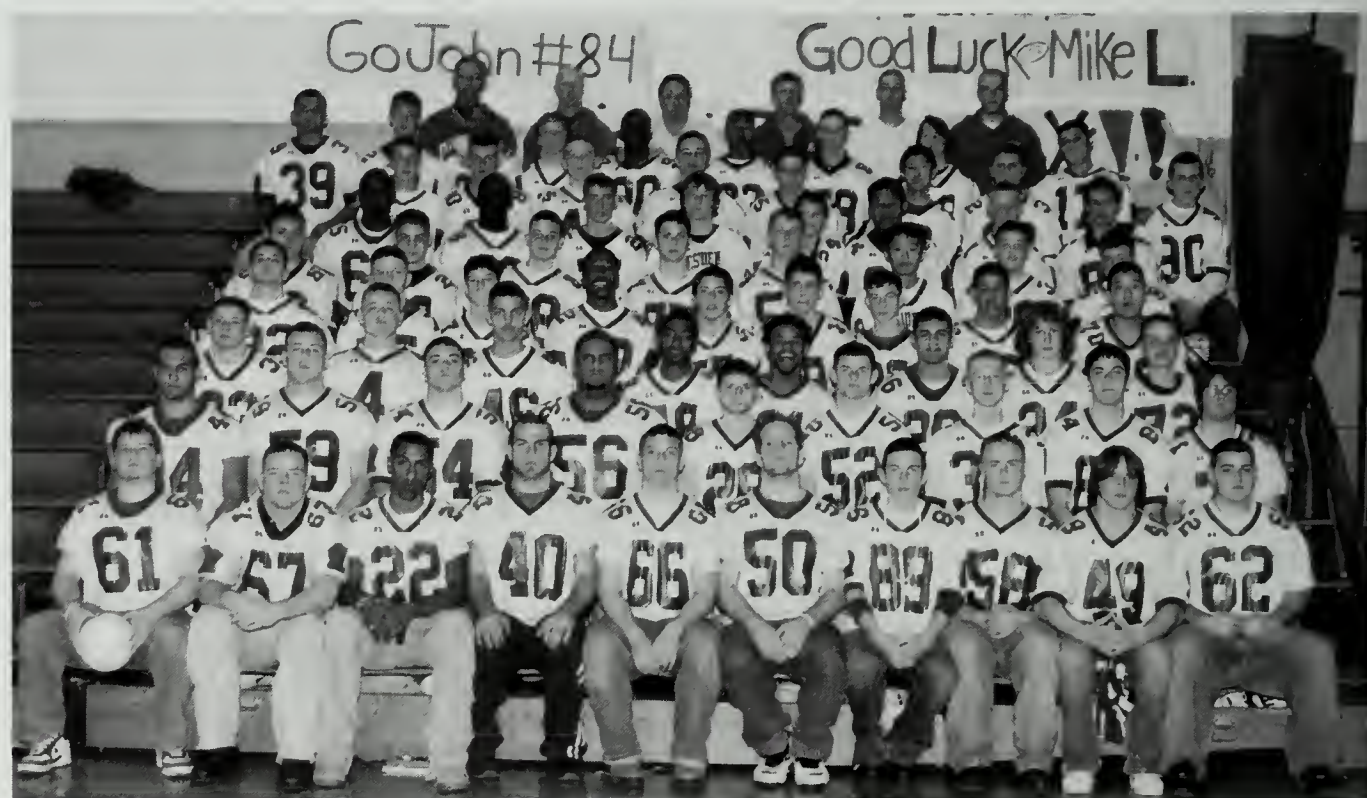

This year's Q.H.S. football had high expectations. But inexperience and injuries hampered this team during the first half of the season. As the season progressed our senior leadership moved the team toward a shared vision. They refused to let a climate of apathy to exist, or for their teammates to give anything less than their best effort. The second half of the season produced a winning attitude once again, culminating in a record sixth straight Thanksgiving Day City Championship.

"One of the illusions of life is that the present hour is not the critical, decisive hour. Write it on your heart that every day is the best day of the year," Coach Noble said, citing Ralph Waldo Emerson.

To the football class of '05, Coach Noble leaves these thoughts: People are unreasonable, illogical, and self-centered--Love them anyway. If you do good, people will accuse you of selfish, ulterior motives--Do good anyway. The deed you do today will be forgotten tomorrow--Do good anyway. Honesty and frankness make us very vulnerable--Be honest and frank anyway. People favor underdogs but follow only top dogs--Fight for some underdogs anyway. What you spend years building may be destroyed overnight--Build anyway. People will need help but may attack you when you do help them--Help people anyway. Give the world the best of all and you still may get mistreated--Give the world the best you can anyway. Always give it the best that you have anyway.

Ed Laura uses his finesse around the green to save par.

The 2004 season for the Quincy High School Golf Team was a break-through campaign for several reasons. In addition to achieving several team goals, there were a number of outstanding individual performances on the golf course. The team broke out quickly winning 2 of their first 3 matches, narrowly missing a 3-0 record with a one-point loss to always strong Plymouth North. The highlight of the quick start was the victory over North Quincy 37 ½ to 34 ½ at Furnace Brook Golf Club. It was the first time in at least 15 years that the golf team had been victorious over their archrival Red Raiders. Key victories in the North Quincy match were turned in by Freshman Ricky Salvucci, playing at #6 with a 7-2 romp; Senior Ed Laura with a 5 ½ to 3 ½ victory at #7 and Freshman Mike LeBel clinched it at #8 with a 5-4 victory in the match-play event.

A very tough stretch of matches against the extremely competitive Cape teams was highlighted by an even-par 34 shot by Senior Captain and three-time Atlantic Coast League All-Star Joe Salvucci. It was the best round shot at the Plymouth

Country Club by any high-school golfer this season. Joe played at #1 for the Presidents all season and was very consistent. His even-par round was then equaled by fellow Senior John Folino in the rematch with the Red Raiders later in the month. This time Quincy came out on the short end but John enjoyed the round of his life on the front nine at Presidents Golf Course in Quincy with his 34. Other key contributors to the team's success were Junior Dan Scribner, Junior Jon Pelletier, Junior Matt Giordano, Junior Brian O'Dea, Sophomore Pat Dempsey, Sophomore Steve Palmatier, and Freshman Kevin Shea.

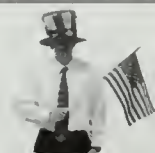

The post-season brought a great performance by Quincy's #3 golfer Steve Connolly who fired a 78 at Dennie Highlands in the league tournament. This brought Steve second-place honors in the event, quite impressive considering 36 of the best golfers from the league (9 teams) came to play on that day. Coaches Lou Venturelli and Dom Venturelli anticipated further progress next season and wanted to thank the three seniors (Joe, John and Ed) for their time and dedication this season.

The 2004-2005 Girls Varsity Soccer Team had award-winning morale this season. The team consisted of eight seniors, most of whom were four-year varsity players. The play was in the most difficult ACL North Division. This year the QHS girls won the ACL Team Sportsmanship Award for the second year in a row. Quincy was extremely competitive, scoring ten goals over fourteen matches. Although the varsity record was 2-12-0 the girls didn't let that bring them down. "It's not always about who wins the game, it's about who has more fun and lasting memories," said senior goal keeper Brianna Nolan. These dedicated athletes had great sportsmanship throughout the season. Forward player Catie Connolly had three goals and three assists this season. Defensive captain Katie Walsh was awarded the ACL All-Star Award. Thanks to captain and goal keeper Stephanie Kozlowski, Quincy had one exciting shutout. Captain Marissa Powers was an ACL Sportsmanship Award Winner. Even though the girls didn't win many games, they maintained their drive to be the top running mates. These girls had a fun season filled with many lasting memories.

Overall, a Good Season

The Quincy High School boys' varsity soccer team had a great season. Lead by Coach Orcut and the three team captains, Ray Marchand, Jose Neves, Hamido Hussein, the team was able to finish second in the Atlantic Coast League with a record of 4-3-1. They made it to the tournament, but unfortunately they lost it in a shoot-out in the first round. Despite their loss, they are still recognized for beating the North Quincy Red Raiders in a 3-0 game. Captain Ray Marchand said that he was grateful for being able to play on such a closely knit team for four years and that he (as well as everyone else) still considers themselves as having a winning season. We can't wait to see what the underclassmen will bring to the table next year.

Marita getting in her "Zone" before the meet

As I walked through the doors of my former alma-mater it was almost like seeing an old, long lost friend for the first time in years. As I walked in the pool hall I saw the combined high school girls team warming up getting ready to take on their last adversary for the season, Marshfield. You could definitely tell that this game was a must win for the Quincy players, almost the dot on the explanation point of a really good season.

Captain Lynn Gilbody, who took a small hiatus last season, returned this season with a vengeance. She propelled this team back into their championship caliber form and boosted the team's morale. As I sat in bleachers with the parents of the girls, I noted the mood shift from fun and goofy to very serious, with the help of Coach Murtaugh, who kind've reminded me of another stern coach who helps make their players better, and that is Coach Bill Belichick of the New England Patriots. It was evident from the start that Quincy was definitely more hungry for this win than Marshfield. I noted the hard work and sheer determination of Captain Lynn Gilbody. In all of the events in which she took part, she either won or came in an extremely close second place. Q.N.Q. won this meet 94-85, solidifying the hard work and determination all season that payed off in the end. When the meet was over and I asked Coach Murtaugh some questions, it always was the team before a lone player. When I asked, "Who is your M.V.P.?" or, "Who improved the most?" the answer every time was not just one player improved, it was a team effort and everyone on the team is an M.V.P. and everyone improved in one way or another. So in every way, this season wasn't about one player, it was about the team, and the team was the star this season.

This year's 2004-2005 Girls' Volleyball Team was phenomenal. Their success from last year was carried over and exceeded. Coach Barrett and the team captains led their team to an outstanding 19-0 season. The girls then went on to win 4 tournament games, making it through the Division I first round, Division I second round, Sectional Semi-Final, Sectional Final, and appearing at the State Final. The season ended abruptly as they faced the overpowering Barnstable, but the season had many great things to remember. The girls beat North a total of 3 times throughout the season. With five returning Varsity players and a group of exciting newcomers, the Quincy High School Girls' Basketball Team has had a successful season and is battling for the opportunity to play in their third consecutive state tournament. Coach Bretsch and assistant coaches Miss Gardner, Mr. Bacchieri, and Miss Conlon have worked hard to prepare the team for another successful season. Senior captains Rebekah Sorensen and Nicole O'Sullivan, both three-year varsity players, have provided steady leadership for the team and have set the example for their teammates of what it means to be a team player and a competitor. Rebekah, the team's point guard, and Nicole, one of the team's leading scorers and the team's leading rebounder, have been starters and impact players all season. Junior Jessica Page is the team's other leading scorer. She is the team's only returning starter from last season and has elevated her game since last year, becoming our team's go to scorer and defensive specialist. Rounding out the starting lineup are junior forward Ashlee Scott and sophomore forward Brigid Kyle. The reserves also made a tremendous impact this year. Senior Stephanie Kozlowski, junior Teri Murphy, and freshman Meagan Tobin and Marybeth Torpey have all been significant contributors to the team's success.

Play Strong and Live Long

For the first time in well over 40 years, the Quincy High School Varsity Basketball Team won a league title. Led by Senior Captains Parker Scott and John Folino, the Presidents persevered from day one. The Presidents honored three mottoes: no pain, no fear, and no excuses. Throughout the season, these mottoes were the benchmarks of every game.

Defensive intensity carried the team from the first game until the final game of the season. From the starting five to the last player off of the bench, the Presidents were solid, well rounded competitors. The nine seniors wish the team the very best of luck as the underclassmen hone their skills in the seasons to come.

12 John Folino

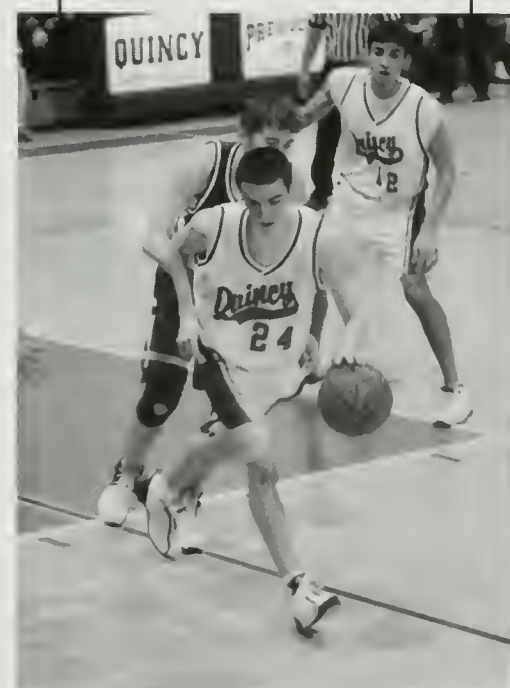

By mid-February, John had led his team to a 12-2 record. He scored an average of 20 points a game. He's hoping to lead the Presidents even further in the tournament.

14 Parker Scott

Parker has been an outstanding point guard as he lead the offense day in and day out. He has also played a very strong defensive game, and hopes to go deep into the tournament.

GIRLS' HOCKEY

Junior Jen Pettite beats the defenseman to the puck.

Kristen Garber and QNQ hustle out of the zone.

Senior Julia Berberan gets ready to make the save.

Citywide stand-outs

The Quincy North Quincy girls enjoyed another competitive season this year. The girls on the team hail from both city high schools. Quincy High contributed three members to the team, two of them being starters. Senior Captain Marissa Powers started at center for QNQ and led the team in points. Jessica Godfrey was a starting defenseman for QNQ and solid on the blue line. A new addition to the team this year, Junior Kirsty Penticost, proved to be an aggressive offensive contributor during her rookie season. The girls skated hard all season, despite low numbers and recurring injuries. QNQ looks forward to next season and a bright future for this young team.

21 MARISSA POWERS

Senior Captain Marissa Powers played a major role on the team this season. On a few occasions Powers never stepped off the ice all game. She tied the team leader in points.

5 JESSICA GODFREY

Senior Jessica Godfrey was a solid defenseman for QNQ this year. Jess saw ample ice time this season, often only getting off the ice once or twice a period. She played a key role on team.

9 KIRSTY PENTICOST

Kirsty was new to the game this season, but few would be able to tell by the way she played. She always gave her all out on the ice, and was a fierce competitor along the boards.

Julia Berberan scoops up the shot.

Allison Griffith takes the faceoff for QNQ.

Senior Marissa Powers fires off a shot.

Defensman Marissa Deegan clears the puck.

A Great Struggle

The 2004-2005 Quincy High School Hockey Team had a strong start. Winning two jamboree games and a few scrimmages, the season looked to be headed in a successful direction. The first game against Winthrop was a tough loss in a one goal game but was a good test as to the desperation of this young club. The season seemed to be turning around in a big win against Whitman-Hanson until the ugly ending. The guys on the ice from Whitman-Hanson had gotten frustrated and started a brawl after the buzzer went off. The event resulted in two key players, Mike McKeon and Pat Malone, getting suspended for the next two games. One of these games happened to be against North Quincy. This was a major setback in the season. Another two games were lost and injuries started to take their toll. There seemed to be at least one injury a game. With starters getting hurt, the lines were all switched up and the season became a mess. With only one win, the team realized that the only thing left to do was to beat North. Everyone was pumped up for the game and went out on the ice with their heads up, standing proud. For some, this would be their last meeting with North Quincy. It was a good hard-fought game but Quincy was unable to come out with the win, as they pulled their goalie in a 2-0 game and gave up an empty netter. This seemed to mark the end of the season with only four games left and the tournament out of their reach. "This is the toughest day-to-day season I have ever witnessed in my forty years of coaching", said Coach Sylvia. "There were just no easy games. Each game seemed to be tougher than the last."

5 Matt Giordani

Matt Giordani had a strong season. The record doesn't show it, but Matt lead the Presidents all season long and never missed a game. He's hoping to make next year even better.

7 Ed Laura

Eddie was one of only a handful of seniors on the Varsity Team this year. He proved himself to be a good captain and stuck with the team even when the season started going downhill.

17 Mike McKeon

Mike also had a strong year in the 2004-2005 season. With an unfortunate suspension early in the season Mike was able to stay with it and bounce back. Mike will also be returning next year.

WRESTLING

McGee ties up with his opponent.

Throw Your Hat In The Ring

The 2004-2005 Wrestling season had a very slow start. The team wasn't too strong to start off with because this was a rebuilding year. The many individual records were better than the team record of 4-14. Reggie took 4th at sectionals along with Cunningham who took 6th, and they both went on to States. Some individual records were Reggie's record of 20-8, Tusi's record of 14-9, Cunningham's record of 25-11, Chaz's record of 3-14 and Joey MacDonald's record of 5-16. Although the team was lacking in numbers, they made up for it with the amazing dedication that all the wrestlers had. As a whole, the season was not too bad, the wrestlers became a team. Most important, they had fun.

Being A Captain Is Probably The Hardest Job

Seniors: Steve McGee, Frank McMurrough, Chris Regiannini, Steve Cunningham, Jared Tusi, and Jesse Gately.

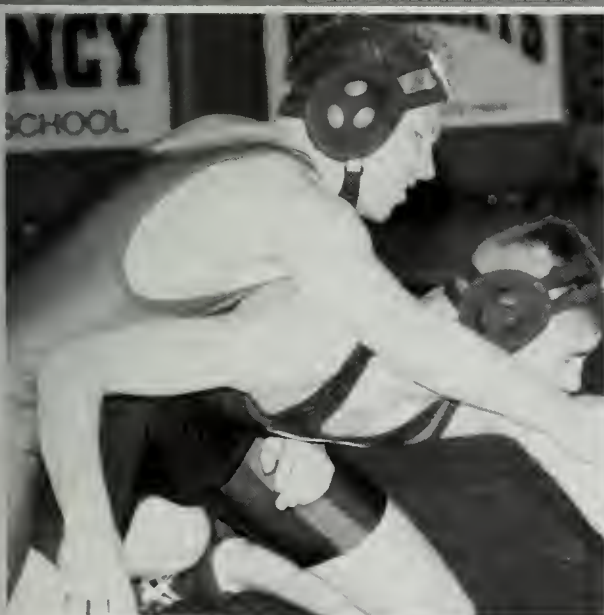

Senior captain Frank McMurrough ended up breaking his back in the Turkey Day Football Game which was a week before the wrestling season started. This made it very hard on the team as well as the other Senior captain Chris Regiannini. Despite all of that, both captains worked together with the coach and really helped to lead the team.

Chris uses the "banana split" to win the match.

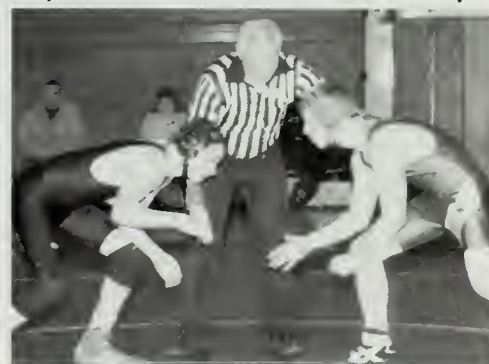

O'Neil looks around for an opportunity.

Jesse hits him with a crossface.

Cunningham uses a power half.

Victoria, Megan and Kayleigh stay relaxed before performing at the rally.

Alda, Rachel and Leah take a quick breath before continuing with practice.

Rachel, Catherine, Sam and Hannah have fun despite the rainy weather at the Turkey Day game.

A Star-Spangled Year

The 2004-2005 Varsity Cheerleading Squad had a rough start but in the end they came out on top. Starting the year off with eight new freshmen seemed like it would turn out to be a disaster. Luckily, that was not the case. Senior captains Christine Burgess, Leah Lally, Rachel Sullivan, and junior captain Megan Peterson, along with Coach Lauren Webber were able to pull the squad together and really accomplish something. After football and basketball season the girls went on to compete in many competitions, where they performed amazingly and received two trophies. From practices to games, rallies, and competitions, the cheerleaders can definitely be considered the hardest working and most spirited girls at Quincy High School.

What It Means To Be A Captain

Christine Burgess (senior), Leah Lally (senior), Megan Peterson (junior) and Rachel Sullivan (senior) had a huge responsibility put before them. They led a squad where about half of the girls were brand new, but they came through with flying colors. Christine Burgess started cheerleading when she was 10 for the Houghs Neck Manets. Leah Lally started cheerleading when she was 7 for the Quincy Point Panthers and the St. Joseph Blue Devils. Megan Peterson started cheerleading when she was 9 for the Quincy Point Panthers, and Rachel Sullivan started cheerleading when she was 13 for the West Quincy Elks. All of this experience as well as their love for the sport helped them to lead their squad to a great year with a million memories to go along with it.

The Seniors: Lauren Dockham, Christine Burgess, Rachel Sullivan, Leah Lally, and Catherine Gropp.

Smiling is just one of the many jobs of a cheerleader.

EVENTS

The Junior Prom

A Star-Spangled Evening

The class of 2005 was all smiles. The prom was a great success, just a magical time. Senior Melissa Lewis said, "Tonight was great, I can't wait for next year's senior prom!"

These are the times

The junior prom took place on Friday, April 30 of 2004 at Lantana's in Randolph. Just walking through the door, you could feel the excitement. The prom committee had decorated the hall with a silver, blue and white balloon arch. In the lobby silver balloons shaped the number 2004 and the teachers welcomed us warmly in a receiving line.

Music was low until dinner, then soon after everyone was up on the dance floor, forgetting the preoccupations of the next day, the SATs! "These are the Times," was the prom theme and the song in every heart.

Enjoying the night
"The prom was great fun," said senior Michael Chan, preparing here to dine with his friends.

Elegant dining
Student Council, Heritage students and their friends sit down to enjoy a dinner of salad, chicken parmesan and pasta, and a dessert of cookies and brownies.

Strutting their stuff in style

Popular with the guys were sunglasses and silver vests. Sequins, chiffon and pastel gowns were a hit with the girls, many of whom had their hair upswept and graced with a tiara. Matt Giordani and Kaitlyn Pudder were one of many elegant couples.

Take your shoes off

Kristyn Duggan and Sean Guinto take a welcome break from the noise and the heat of the dance floor. There were a couple of comfortable leather armchairs in the lobby just for this purpose.

Everybody's Hot, Hot Hot

There's nothing like a Conga line to get everybody up on their feet. This group snaked all around the ballroom, picking up people as it went.

Who gets the centerpiece?

One memento of the prom was each table's centerpiece. Collen Dillon, Jessica Godfrey and many other juniors had found under their chairs a blue piece of paper. This made them the winners of the centerpieces at their tables.

QHS's own piano man

Joe Salvucci and Ryan Kirby surprised us with a performance of some Billy Joel tunes. Coach Noble added to the fun by stashing a few dollar bills in a cup for Joe!

Leadership Camp

RIISING TO THE CHALLENGE

Time for shade

Senior Caitlin Kolson shoots the breeze under a tree to get away from the scorching sun.

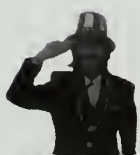

Put your mind to it!

This year's leadership camp began at the Norfolk County Ropes Course located in Braintree. To start off the three day trip students chose to participate in either the low ropes or the high ropes activities. The low ropes featured ice breaker games so students could get acquainted. Some of the activities involved a rock wall, incline log, and a zipline. After two days at the ropes course, camp moved to Mt. Wachusett where students and teachers had to use their new teamwork skills to scale the mountain. At the top of the mountain Mr. Scanlan delivered a long-awaited speech which wrapped up the three day trip and sent everyone home with a whole new meaning of leadership.

Friends forever

Seniors Katie Walker and Diana DiCesare light up the sky with their smiles after a long day of challenges.

Seniors Joe Salvucci, Stephen Smith, and John Folino team up to complete a mind-boggling task that took more concentration than expected.

Council Fun

WELCOME WEEK & HALLOWE'EN

The Student Council's Welcome Week was a great success--especially Shreck

Everyone loves a love story. Senior Elsie Prinsloo said, "It was a great idea playing the movie Shreck. I had a lot of fun watching it."

Inaugural events

The Student Council always makes things interesting at QHS, and this year was no exception. Welcome Week got us all in the swing our first full week in September, featuring a Krispy Kreme Giveaway, Red Sox Night, All-School Capture the Flag, Movie Night and Quincy High Day. Movie Night was the biggest hit, as students gathered in the auditorium for love and laughs with Shreck.

On Halloween students were encouraged to come in costumes and win prizes at a costume contest. From vampires to hard hats, it was great fun for all. Thanks, StuCo!

Shall we go out for a bite? Senior Edward Gallagher as Angelus from Buffy the Vampire Slayer, hunting QHS's halls for his prey.

Halloween brings out the creative spirit in all of us at QHS.

"We all are winners in our hearts," said the senior boy scout Patrick Dunlea at the end of the competition.

Dinner Theater

STEEL MAGNOLIAS

GEOFFRY HICKS

Food for thought

With just three and a half weeks of rehearsal, the Quincy High School Drama Club struck again with its annual autumn Dinner Theater performance.

This year, the Drama Club tackled Steel Magnolias, the story of a young diabetic woman named Shelby, played by junior Katelyn Dwyer. The setting is a 1980's beauty salon. The majority of the women's conversing and love-gossiping takes place within its walls. Shelby tries to prove her self-worth to both family and friends, despite her chronic illness. She desires a normal and happy life and wants to start a family. Shelby's mother, M'Lynn, played by junior Amanda Spear, is intensely protective of her daughter's precarious health. M'Lynn's strong character portrays her as the leader and emotional backbone of her daughter and of the other women.

After her preparation for a dress rehearsal, Ms. Spear spoke about the amount of effort that goes into a production this short.

"The rehearsals are fun, yet hard work. There's a lot to do during rehearsals; there's no time to sit down and relax."

Despite the brief and rapidly-paced production, the cast members and technical staff still had plenty of time to enjoy their work and the camaraderie formed because of their time spent together on the set. Hope Collins, a sophomore and member of drama's technical crew, made her own observations. "I just like being with everyone. Everyone gets along really well. [The actresses] are great and we all work so hard."

Senior Patrick Dunlea, the Steel Magnolias stage manager, predicted that the show would go smoothly because of the cast's relationship during the rehearsals. The performance was not just smooth but a raving success. Its comedic wit, authentic and passionate acting, convincing southern accents, and brilliant lighting and set designs literally set the audience to laughing, crying, "oohing" and "ahhing." One can only anticipate the next production by the QHS Drama Club after another enchanting performance.

Hair Make-Over

ROTC'S Delta Force

Cadet Lt. Colonel Cali Nguyen, Cadet Major Andrew Masse, Cadet Major Kit Lui seen marching back to the barracks for some much needed R&R.

State of the Union

This year's AFJROTC encampment took place at Camp Edwards on Cape Cod. The cadets went through the leadership reaction course, obstacle course, the repel tower and the most exhilarating and fun of all, the helicopter ride over the camp. All fun aside, this encampment's main goal was to help take the cadets and teach them to lead and grow. Believe it or not, this is another classroom setting. The purpose of this journey was to teach the cadets leadership, build character, and emphasize teamwork in everything that they did the entire weekend.

Fall Sports Rally

A BLUE AND WHITE CONVENTION

Santoro takes charge

Principal Santoro prepares himself for the first rally of the school year, as well as his first rally, by taking the microphone and attempting to quiet down the roaring gymnasium.

Students eagerly awaiting

Seniors Jake Quinlan, Stephanie Kozlowski and junior Marissa Monaco watch in anticipation as the fall rally starts to heat up.

The Presidents take The floor!

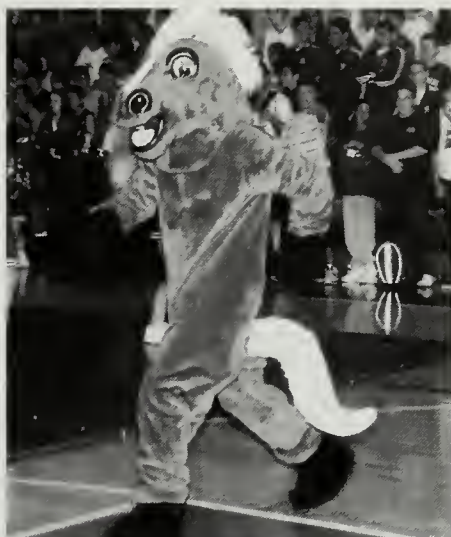

With anticipation and wonder, all eyes are roaming around the jam-packed gymnasium. The QHS band is playing in the background, the cheerleaders are dead center, and the football players, proudly wearing their Presidents jerseys, are pumping up the crowd. As all the fall sports teams are introduced, the students show off their spirit. Senior Kaitlyn Pudder says, "This year's going to be great, we're already off to a good start, even though we have a new principal."

As you can see, the first rally of the 2004-2005 school year is a hit and now we can only wait for what will happen on Turkey Day.

LEND ME A TENOR

Max's Big Campaign

Max begs Saunders for a chance to take Tito's place as Othello in the opera, because of his sudden "death."

Lend Me a Tenor explores the stressful events in running an opera house. This 1940's setting captures the culture of an urban society. The Cleveland Grand Opera Company has picked as their first performance the masterpiece Othello, Shakespeare's tragedy of Othello the Moor of Venice. Saunders (Billy Gilcoine) was the head of the opera company with many worries on his hands. Tito Merelli (Trevor Valone) and his wife Maria (Taylor Dennehey) were a funny Italian couple who were always fighting. When Tito doesn't feel good he takes too many pills and falls dead asleep before he is supposed to perform. Max (Pat Dunlea), assistant to Saunders, has to step up and perform Tito's role of Othello in the opera. This was a hard secret to keep with so many people dying to meet Tito Merelli. Saunders' daughter Maggie (Kristen Cummings) would hide anywhere if it meant that she got to see Tito. Everyone wanted to see Tito including the bellhop (Hope Collins), soprano (Jessica Widdicombe), and Julia (Amanda Spears) another assistant in the opera house. Max gave a thrilling performance in Tito's costume and all was well in the end. With romance, excitement, and laughter, this play left a lasting impression on the audience.

Who's the real Othello?

The "fake" Othello and the "real" Othello contemplate what to do with their women problems.

"We want to see Tito!"

Saunders forces the bellhop to leave Tito Merelli's room, but she refuses to go until she sees him.

True love?

Max dances with the one he loves after his performance, but Maggie doesn't know his true identity.

Desperate measures

Diana tries to seduce Max, in an attempt to see Tito Merelli before their performance together.

"You can see Tito after the show!"

The bellhop and Julia refuse to leave until they get to see Tito Merelli in person, but Saunders thinks he's dead, so he tries to get them to leave before the secret gets out.

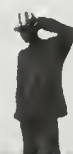

Tough love

Tito tries to convince his wife Maria he was not cheating on her.

The cast and crew

The show was directed by Stephanie Scanlan and Stephen Smith. Rich Doria was the stage manager who created a bright and seductive set with the help of his set crew.

Homecoming

A PRESIDENTIAL PARTY

Mr. Scanlan carries in the coveted crown while Alda, Annaliza and Marybeth show off their outfits!

Party Platform

On Friday, November 19, 2004, the students of Quincy High rolled into the gym in their flashy outfits and pumped up attitudes for this year's first dance. This years Homecoming was very well attended; 505 tickets were sold. As everyone was dancing the night away, no one wanted to stop when it came time for the Homecoming Court to be announced, but finally everyone made their way to the bleachers. After the court was called everyone danced for the rest of the night, and 11 o'clock came all too soon. No one wanted to go home, especially the seniors, because this was our final Homecoming.

"Go dj, cuz that's my dj!"
For the first time ever Kiss 108 was the dj for Quincy High's Homecoming.

Pump it up!
Senior Casey Hannon tries to pump up the crowd before the court is called. And the students cheer as their friends are called onto the floor.

Turkey Day Rally

A BLUE AND WHITE AFFAIR

Santoro shows his school pride!

Mr. Santoro looks enthusiastic with his patriotic red, white, and blue hat that the cheerleaders gave him to show his school spirit. As you can see, he was well prepared for his first Turkey Day Rally.

Beat the Raiders!

The Turkey Day Rally started off with a bang! The pony helped to get things started by "assisting" the Dance Team in their routine and really getting the crowd excited. The football players were super pumped for their up-coming game against the North Quincy Red Raiders. When asked about the "Big Game" senior captains Marc Hutchins and Tim Randall had something to say. "We've had a rough season but there is NO WAY that North will beat us tomorrow. We're going to make it 6 years in a row, a new record!"

Full of Flava Flaav Spirit

The varsity cheerleading squad show off their synchronized dance moves before making a nicely formed pyramid.

Standing tall and proud

The AFJROTC stands at attention as they proudly present the colors and help to start off the rally.

Put a smile on your face!

Varsity cheerleaders Krysta Davis (sophomore) and Jess Giordani (freshman) smile big as they concentrate and put together a difficult stunt in their routine.

A new school mascot?

The seniors gave the pony a run for his money as they made their own personal school mascot, "miniature" pony who proudly wears his President colors.

Let's dance!

The Dance Team gets on the floor (literally) to show everyone the new moves that they have been working on all fall.

Give me a hug!

Senior captain of the football team, Marc Hutchins, waits with open arms to give a rose to his cheerleader.

Senior football hotties

Senior football players, Jeff Ruggerio, Mike Kearney, Mike Little, Jose Ortiz, and Frank McMurrough, in their prime as they wait for the Turkey Day Rally to begin.

ROTC AFTER DARK

Pool Shark

Kit Lui with his steady hands, keen eye sight, and cool attitude is quite the pool shark. Taking on and rolling by all challengers at the encampment after dark.

Strike!

Ping Zheng along with friend Lin Yin had a great time on the lanes leaving no pins standing and all challengers beaten.

Enjoyment is built into the cadets' work

In 2004-2005, the MA-061 QHS AFJROTC performed a lot of community service work and still had time for plenty of play. After the fall encampment, there was the ropes course in Braintree. In October, the cadets helped out hosting the Salem Haunted Ship. In November they marched in the Christmas Parade. The Color Guard got many school events started throughout the year.

For fun there was time to relax whenever we were working and the cadets made good use of it. There were also two great dances in December and February. These dances gave us a chance to enjoy each other and meet other cadets.

On the Move

Everybody had a great time at the dance. After all the commanders worked hard throughout the year, they had some time to relax and enjoy one another's company.

No Empty Hands Here

Phuoc Vo is a great help cleaning up Wollaston cemetery using his strength to outlast fellow ROTC members. Shaping up the cemetery is one of ROTC's many community service events.

Nothing New

At Boys' State, Kit Lui met this high ranking general who presented him with an award. Kit is always happy to go above and beyond his duty, which is why he is among our great ROTC leadership.

Quincy High School Steps Out in Style at the AFJROTC Military Ball

Winter Concert

IT'S BEGINNING TO LOOK A LOT LIKE CHRISTMAS

Dedication and Commitment

Ms. Scanlon's choir impresses many audiences with heavenly sounds. The chorus follows a busy schedule of performances throughout the school year.

Winter Fun

The annual Winter Concert is a tradition in the holiday season at Quincy High School. The Quincy High Chorus, Quincy High Horizons Honor Chorus and the City of Quincy combined band joined together on Thursday December 17 at 7:00 pm in the Lloyd H. Hill Center for Performing Arts, to entertain a full audience of family and friends. The show featured songs of the holiday season such as Angles We have Heard on High, Handel's Glory of the Lord, and Carol of the Drum. At the end of the evening the ensemble led the audience in a sing along of celebration.

Old Times

The choir sings another well known Christmas song, reminding everyone of old memories of Christmas with the family.

Harmony

The band and choir perform in great harmony as always under the direction of Ms. Scanlon.

Leave it all on Stage

Ed Gallagher and Jory Thomas gave it all they had at the Winter Concert. It takes an enormous amount of practice to play at the level of these two.

Dreamlike Sounds

The concert band was made up of members from both Quincy and North Quincy. The two schools can make beautiful music together!

Piano Man

Ed Gallagher has happy fingers on the night of the Winter Concert. With sounds so sweet he plays beautiful renditions of some well known Christmas songs.

Flutes

After years of practice these three ladies are able to enrich the evening with the melodious music of the flute.

Sitting Next to the Fire

The christmas songs performed by the winter concert band made you want to enjoy a cup of hot cocoa by the fire.

TEN YEARS STRONG

A night for friends to perform
(Right) Caitlin and Annaliza introduce Catherine and Pat who performed Baby It's Cold Outside. Caitlin thought it really was cold outside!
(Below) Best friends Diana DiCesare and Katie Walker performed Seasons.

Impersonators of the Year.

This performance got the most laughs out of the audience, Dean Johnson and Mrs. Mririck had some trouble remembering the words to I Got You Babe, but they got the hang of it by the end.

A Decade of QHS Talent

Sold Out X was held January 20, 2005 in the QHS Auditorium. Catherine Gropp, Caitlin Kolson, and Annaliza Pascua directed the show. The show is sponsored by the Heritage Program; so all the students must be involved in some way. Singing, dancing and comedy filled the show with laughter. Fifth Gear, a QHS favorite, returned to perform again in this show. This year we were pleased to see two faculty members, Mr. Johnson and Mrs. Mririck perform I got you Babe. Advisors Mr. Scanlan, Ms. Creedon and Ms. Scanlan were very impressed as usual about the show.

Heating up the stage
Catherine Gropp and Pat Dunlea stole the show with their performance of Baby It's Cold Outside.

Rising star
You are not Alone was performed by Hien Lueng. This was his second year in the show, and he has great potential to be a Sold Out Star.

The grand finale
The Heritage girls continued their tradition of ending the show with a bang. They danced to My Prerogative by Britney Spears.

This year's piano man
This multi-musical man, Eddie Gallagher, played Fur Elise. He wowed the audience with his outstanding performance.

Sing your heart out
Greg Amarra's first of four performances was with Donika Hajrizaj. They performed Let that be Enough.

DYNASTY

United Nation

This year was our year. The Red Sox finally buried their demons once and for all, pulling off one of the greatest sports comebacks in sports history by coming back three games down to the "Evil Empire" and coming back to not only to win that series but win the next four games in the World Series. They beat the St. Louis Cardinals and "Reversed the Curse!"

21. That was the record the Patriots set for most consecutive wins in a row over two seasons. The Patriots are the Big Red, White, and Blue Machine because of their sheer dominance. Tom Brady is now 9-0 in the post-season, while Bill Belichick has now passed the legend that is Vince Lombardi for most playoff wins with an amazing 10-1 record. The Pats are one of six teams who have ever won three Superbowls in four years, with the last team being the 90's Dallas Cowboys. The Patriots' combined two season record is an astounding 32-4, setting a new NFL record.

No wonder QHS has so many fans!

Mrs. Coleman rallying the girls together for Patriots Day.

Wemerson & Kim support our teams.

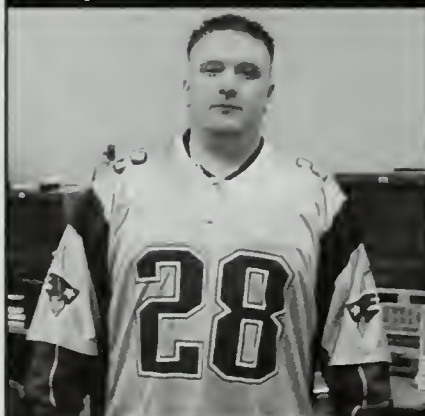

Todd and Kim showing their true unity for the Pats.

Kevin shows he could play too.

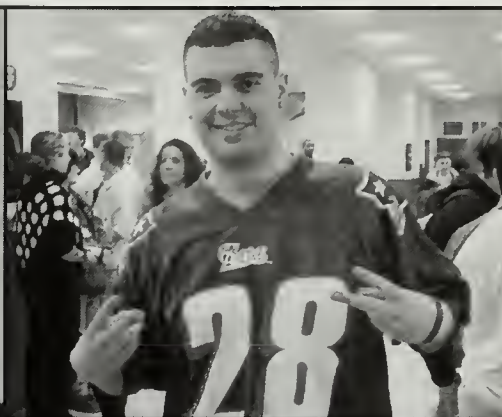

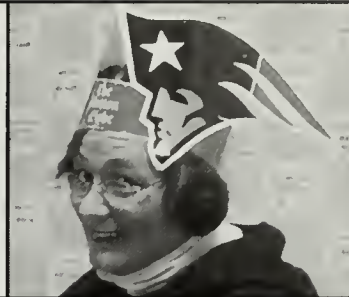

This year more than ever, Boston sports aren't just for the boys anymore. The girls have come out in full force.

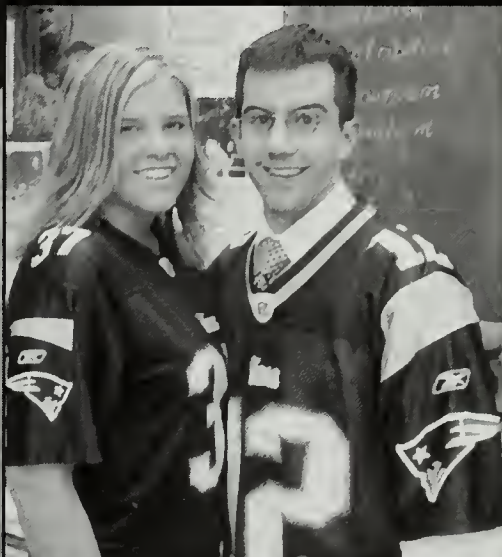

From stoic to stoked to scared, fans this year have seen and gone through practically all emotions.

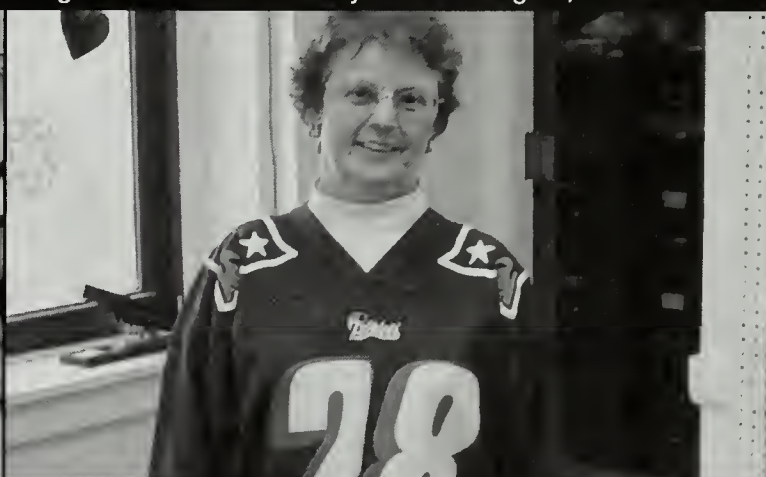

2004 NEW ENGLAND RULED THE SPORTS WORLD, WITH THE RED SOX BREAKING THE 86 YEAR CURSE TO WIN THE WORLD SERIES, AND THE PATRIOTS WINNING THEIR 3RD SUPERBOWL IN 4 YEARS.

B-Wilk showing old school Pats love.

Chrissy and Mr. N agree, Boston rocks.

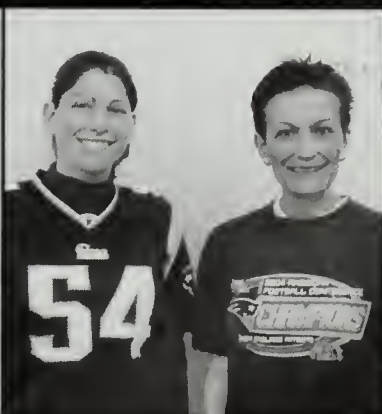

Has the world come to an end? Both guys and girls have finally agreed on something they like.

Mrs. Tusi shows fan attendance is mandatory!

Teachers once or twice every year can let their hair down and go all out, like on Patriots Day this year!

Derek loves his "Bruschi!"

BASEBALL

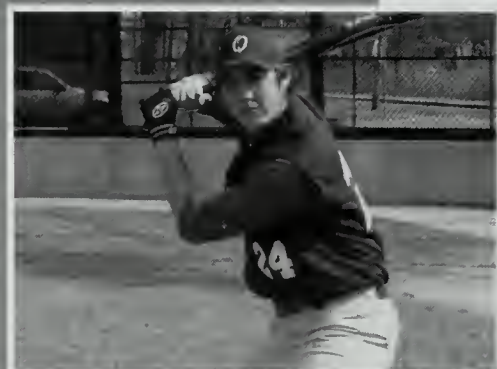

Senior Quad-Captains

Senior captain Steve Priscella gets ready to steal second.

Captain John Folino stares down a pitch with a keen eye.

Senior captain Steve Sullivan gets ready to drive one.

Senior captain John Santon winds up to throw some heat against Plymouth North.

To the Tournament Again

The 2004-2005 Quincy High Baseball Team had another great season. The team was led by Coach Michael Dracchio, and the four captains Steve Priscella, John Folino, Steve Sullivan, and John Santon. The men faced a tough schedule playing top teams like Plymouth North and Whitman Hanson twice, along with Hingham and Milton. The team was led by Steve Sullivan who finished as one of the top hitters in the league. Steve Priscella also added strong hitting and solid defense, while John Folino led the pitching for the Presidents having 98 strikeouts throughout the season. John Santon finished as one of the most feared pitchers in the league. All four captains were invited to the All-Star game. The men finished the season with a 14-6 record and received a 9 seed in the Division 1 South Tournament.

A .700 Team

THE 2004-2005 QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL BASEBALL TEAM

SOFTBALL

THE 2004-2005 QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL SOFTBALL TEAM

A Leadership Team

The Quincy Presidents Softball team was led by outstanding coaches Mike Sedar and Brian Fisher this season. The Lady Presidents faced a tough schedule, playing powerhouse teams such as Cardinal Spellman, Fontbone Academy, Milton and Whitman-Hanson. Quincy split the ACL title with rivals Whitman-Hanson for the second year in a row. The team was led by strong seniors Alycia Dimuzio, Marissa Powers, Rebekah Sorensen, Rachael Sorensen, Katie Walsh and Rebecca Williams. Alycia Dimuzio provided strong hitting while Rebi and Rachael Sorensen brought impeccable pitching. Rachael Sorensen had multiple no-hit games along with a perfect game. Marissa Powers produced on the base path. The team finished 11-1 in the ACL and 11-8 over all; qualifying for the state tournament.

Senior Katie Walsh fires home.

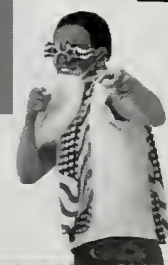

Senior Alycia Dimuzio sits back and drives one.

The wind up and the pitch.

Williams makes the out at first.

LACROSSE

The Game Against Plymouth

Koz knocks over another "victim" in her way.

Teri gets the pass, shoots, and scores!

Monaco comes down the field looking for a pass.

Dondero runs through the defense to shoot and score.

THE BEGINNING OF A NEW TERM

This year the Quincy High 2005 Girls' Lacrosse Team was in its second year as a real sports program. They came into the season with high hopes and a lot of newcomers. Despite all the obstacles placed before them, as well as the fact that almost every other team was more experienced, they never gave up or got discouraged. Coming out with wins over New Bedford (home), Cambridge (home and away), and ties with New Bedford (away) and Plymouth (home), the girls really do consider themselves to have had a good season. With the help of Coach Duffy, hopefully the lacrosse program will improve and soon be equal with all the other Atlantic Coast League teams.

THE FIRST LADIES

THE 2005 QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS LACROSSE TEAM

THE 2005 QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL BOYS' LACROSSE TEAM

THE SILENT WARRIORS

The 2005 Quincy High Boys' Lacrosse Team had an interesting year. They had a somewhat new program but they worked their hearts out and had a good season. Coach Orcut was able to take on new freshmen and still keep the playing level high. With the help of seniors Kevin French, Steve Yetman and Jeff Ruggiero, the team won many games and they truly had a golden season.

Jack tries to push away his defender.

Alex runs down the field with the ball.

Mark recovers the ball and looks to pass.

Casey makes a run for it.

TENNIS

Tennis does not start on the court, it starts in the classroom. Coach Swanson believes that if you can get it done in the classroom, you can get it done on the court. Through this work ethic, both boys' and girls' teams had a good season and did exceptionally well in the individual tournament. Although they played hard, both teams lost in the first round of the state tournament. Tennis is all about the love: love-15, love-13, love-40, game.

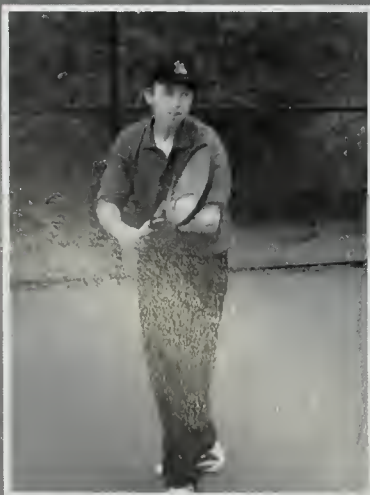

Building a Winning Tradition

Senior Rob McKeever hits a forehand lob.

Than-Nha and Wendy show team spirit by putting up the flags.

Senior Gary Hillier gets ready to serve his ace.

THE 2004-2005 QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL BOYS' TENNIS TEAM

THE 2004-2005 QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS' TENNIS TEAM

VOLLEYBALL

THE 2004-2005 QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL BOYS VOLLEYBALL TEAM

The starting six go over last minute strategy.

Senior Marc Hutchins goes for the kill.

Dig it!

Senior John Hanlon slams one down.

This year the Presidents ended their season just short of qualifying for the state tournament with a 7-9 record. Throughout the season the team was led by senior tri-captains Stephen Smith, Marc Hutchins and John Hanlon. Smith set for Quincy while Hutchins and Hanlon played in the middle. This season Quincy earned 4 spots on the South Alliance all-star team. All-Stars were senior setter Stephen Smith and freshman outside hitter Andrew Paine while Hutchins and Hanlon each earned honorable mention. Others contributing for varsity were junior Endri Lesha, and freshmen Brendan Paine, Mort Najem, and Mike Mottola. The team's 3.49 GPA earned them one of the states highest awards, the Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Association (MIAA) Gold Medal for team Academic Excellence. The Presidents hope to have a promising future with 8 returning freshman next year including three varsity starters.

Spring Campaign

MAKE WAY FOR THEATRE, FASHION AND CULTURE

Trouble in the Courts

Queen Festrada (Catherine Gropp) wants more than anything for her son to be the next king. When Pippin gets in the way, Festrada and Louis (Stephen Smith) make devious plots against him.

Pippin

Pippin is a tongue-in-cheek play-within-a-play about a prince who wants to find meaning in his life, but finds that nothing he does fulfills his wishes. Pippin (Pat Dunlea), goes to war then realizes his father Charlemagne (James Fay) isn't a good man. Pipin kills him and becomes king. When Pipin's duties overwhelm him, Charlemagne is brought back to life. Pippin leaves and falls in love with Catherine (Kate Dwyer) who has a son Theo (Jonathan Walsh). Happiness at last! For all but the seniors, who leave with bittersweet feelings an activity they've dearly loved.

The Poster Boy for Tattoos

Senior Kevin French tries to persuade teacher Mr. Carey to get an Arabic tattoo. Mr. Carey didn't jump into the idea as quickly as some of the students at the Cultural Fair.

Warm Weather and Warm Smiles

The Caribbean table is always a big success in the Cultural Fair, advised this year by Mr. Schatzl and Samantha Mailles. Great food and great friends make this the best table around.

Bronze and Beauty

Seniors Kevin French, Marc Hutchins, Frank McMurrough, Steve Smith and Jake Quinlan made quite the impression on the audience, modeling tuxes and sleepwear.

Haute Couture

On April 7 QHS held its first fashion show in ten years. Mrs. Mirick, a first year clothing teacher, sponsored the show. Her students modeled the clothing they had designed and created. Their inspirations included casual wear, evening wear and sleep wear. The president of this year's first fashion club was Diamona Matta with Kimberly Leslie served as the vice-president.

Cultural Fair 2005

Where could you find good food, music and tattoos for $.25? The Cultural Fair! This year the QHS gym lit up with the colors of the flags from around the world as our diverse students shared a taste of their homelands. With dancing to a sultry beat, authentic clothing and hairstyles, and even videos about countries overseas, it was like a trip abroad!

World's Finest

UNSUNG HEROES OF QHS

National Treasures

With this being the last outing for the seniors, this concert was their grand finale, and they made it one of the best shows the school's ever seen.

Curtain Call

Ms. Scanlan's hard work and heartfelt consideration made it all the more difficult for Katie Driscoll and Ed Gallagher to leave what they cherished so much over their four year career.

Sing Out!

Voices Only: An A Cappella Concert was the last concert for the senior chorus members, so the mood was uplifting and bright, but also in some aspects sad and somber. From the the choral men (with a special cameo by Katherine Gropp) doing a rousing rendition of Barbara Ann and the women doing a breathtaking version of Respect, the crowd came alive and the whole auditorium shook with thunderous applause. A heartfelt soulful finale brought the show to an end. In their heart of hearts the choral seniors will always remember what the magic they created on stage, time after time.

The Paula Cahill Memorial Scholarship (left), presented to Katie Walsh by State Treasurer Timothy Cahill, in memory of his sister. (Below) Mrs. Merrill and Mrs. Eldredge congratulate Geoffry Hicks on earning the POSSE Foundation Scholarship.

Medals of Honor

At this year's May 31 scholarship ceremony, the senior class received well over four million dollars. The big winners were Joe Salvucci with twelve scholarships totaling over $4,000 and the dynamic Sorensen sisters Rebecca and Rachel who also won a very impressive sum. However the biggest winner of the ceremony was all around Mr. Nice Guy Geoffrey Hicks who won a full academic scholarship to the very prestigious Hamilton College, worth $168,000. Hanging tough through challenging courses pays off thanks to the generosity of our many kind and thoughtful scholarship sponsors!

A standing ovation for Dr. Linda Wilson, who is retiring this year after twenty-eight years of service to the students of Quincy High School. Dr. Wilson coordinates the scholarship program with grace and expertise that will long be remembered.

The Ambrose Duggan Memorial Scholarship went to Danielle Perry and Michael Chan. It is an honor for all of the high school department heads to serve on the Scholarship Committee. Mr. Sean Mulready of the English Department presented this award.

The Joy Hanlon Soccer Scholarship (Above) Mr. Richard Hanlon annually presents this award in loving memory of his daughter Joy. This year's recipients included Marissa Powers, Joy's brother John Hanlon, Steve Smith and Tim Randall.

Senior Prom

A NIGHT OF MASQUERADE MAGIC

Last Dance!

June 3 was a beautiful night with perfect weather for the prom at the Quincy Marriott. The seniors danced the night away at this masquerade ball, where the tables beckoned with vases of colorful sequined masks surrounded by teddy bears. The gowns presented a fabulous array of styles. Some were bright-hued satins, some were black, sequined silks, some were frothy pastels fit for Cinderella. The guys sported tuxes, looking fine even when they got comfortably untucked! Many couples never left the dance floor. The fun went on past dawn at Senior Night Out.

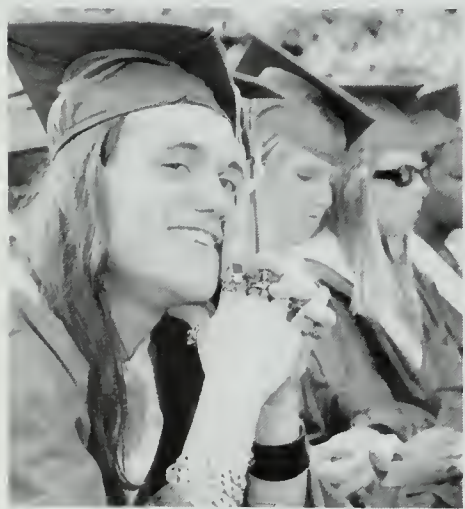

Tonight, it's my job to talk not only about the past four years and how they've affected us, but also about what the future holds for us now that we've managed to make it this far. Each graduate here has set goals, reached for the max, and risen to the challenge—only to set new goals once the old ones had been met. Still, no matter how much we dare to soar, sometimes these goals can be hard to attain. I should know: the only goal I ever scored in a high school soccer match was on our own net.

It's the sort of thing that could potentially have scarred me for life, and in the few seconds after I watched the ball roll over the goal line, I vowed never to play soccer again. It was a fleeting oath, however, because I not only finished that game, but also went on to play a full four years of high school soccer. And while I never truly lived that moment down, I never dwelled on it, because playing soccer was about so much more than winning. I'm not saying that we didn't try—we were always a very hard-working and dedicated group of girls—but no one showed up to two-hour practices every day after school for two and a half months just to prepare for our next game. Victories were simply an added bonus to what we acquired elsewhere on the soccer field.

I didn't go to the first week and a half of soccer practices my freshman year because I didn't know anyone else who was playing. I was afraid that every person I met would be new and unfamiliar. When I finally decided to go, my fears were confirmed—but this turned out to be a blessing rather than a problem. Through playing soccer, I met people I wouldn't have met otherwise, and I made a group of close friends that I won't easily forget.

Commencement

My high school experience has been a mirror image of my soccer one. When I walked up those steps my first day in ninth grade, I knew no more than a handful of other freshmen. Again, I had this unfounded fear of the unknown. I figured that meeting new people and making new friends—something I hadn't really done since the beginning of middle school—would be practically impossible. I had no idea what to expect from my future classmates. By the end of the freshman assembly, however, my worries had completely disappeared. I realized that everyone was in the same situation as me: everyone felt that same mixture of doubt, apprehension, and hope. But, I also realized that while we had this in common, we were at the same time part of a kind of diversity that extends beyond race or religion. Quincy High School provides an environment where it's not only OK to be different—it's normal. I never once looked at the swarm of kids crossing the bridge after a period 2 and felt that we were all exactly the same—and I never once saw this as a problem. Whatever race, whatever religion, whatever music preference, taste in clothing, favorite hobby or first language, we were interwoven to form one seamless community. Back in my freshman year, I found I wasn't alone in my fears, and that was comforting. We weren't so completely different from one another after all.

Over the past four years, our relationships have grown and matured, but one thing remains the same: we are just as close, supportive of one another, and happy together now as we were back in September of our freshman year. This bond can be found anywhere—not just on the soccer field, but on the football field and the basketball court, on the stage in drama productions, in the pride room during interact club meetings and prom committee discussions, in the math wing during Math Club meets, and in the girls gym when ROTC practices for their next competition. We connected that very first day like a bunch of puzzle pieces snapping into place, and these past four years have done nothing but strengthen the glue that holds us together like a puzzle we can't bear to break apart. We lean on each other when we need support, laugh at each other when we want entertainment, and always surprise each other with the amazing things we can do. We've formed the kind of relationships that one can only hope to form at some point in a lifetime, and it's this sort of relationship that I'll find the hardest to leave behind as each of us makes our way towards whatever awaits us in the coming year.

Looking back on the end of middle school and the days before our high school careers began, I see now that we couldn't have imagined what the future would hold for us. We all tried, desperately, to predict how the next four years of our lives would go, and I only realize now that this was an impossible undertaking. High school was different and unfamiliar, and everything we were so sure about in middle school couldn't be applied to it. Now, we find ourselves in the same situation. We can try to imagine what our lives will be like next year, we can try picture what will be different and how we may change individually, but we won't know for certain until we live it. Everything we're so sure about now might not hold so steady in college or in the working world—but just as we adjusted to and learned from high school, we will undoubtedly do the same in the future. And through it all, one thing will be certain: that we will always have our times here at Quincy High School—the love of our parents, the lessons we learned from our teachers and coaches, and the relationships we built together—to guide us. Danielle Rand, Valedictorian

of memory
will yet swell
the chorus ...
when again touched,
as surely they will be,
by the better angels
of our nature.*
